

Contents

Abbreviations	page vi
Tables	viii
Acknowledgements	ix
1 Introduction: War and the Contractor State	1
2 The Victualling Board and its Contractors	19
3 The Global Strategic Task	46
4 The Market for Provisions at Home and Abroad	67
5 Supply Contracts: 'Men of Confined Property' and 'The Flower of the City'	85
6 Commission Agents: 'Persons of Reputation, Integrity and Extensive Commercial Connexions'	115
7 Sea Provisions Contracts: Extending the Imperial Reach	132
8 Basil Cochrane and the Victualling of the Fleet in the East Indies, 1792–1806	155
9 Zephaniah Job: Merchant, Smuggler, Banker and Contractor	177
10 Samuel Paget and the Sea Provisions Contract at Great Yarmouth, 1796–1802	192
11 Conclusion	210
Appendices
1a Structure of naval administration 1793–1815	215
1b Simplified diagram of the victualling organisation and movements of provisions	216
2 Annual naval spending 1793–1816	217
3a Map of Britain showing victualling yards and ports victualled by contract	218
3b Chart of Great Yarmouth, 1798.	219
4a Deployments of ships and men, 1792–1802	220
4b Deployments of ships and men, 1803–1813	222
5 Army numbers abroad, 1793–1814	223
6a Wheat prices in four counties, monthly, 1791–1801	224
6b Wheat prices in four counties, weekly, 1799–1801	225
Bibliography	227
Index	243